THE ANNUAL CHARITY BALL.

A BRILLIANT GATHERING IN MADISON SQUARE GARDEN.

The thirty-third annual Charity Ball, in aid of the Nurery and Child's Hospital, was given last night, in amphitheatre of the Madison Square Garden build-which was used for the first time for this purpose, Charity Ball has been held in the Metropolitan era House for the last eight years, and previous to for many years it was given in the Academy of The burning of the Metropolitan Opera House made a change necessary. At first it was thought the aphitheatre would be too large, but that objection readily overcome by the action of the managers of the garden, who had a large drop curtain constructed.

This curtain was hung so as to cut of about one-third of the area of the amphithentre, which last night sted a most attractive appearance. The curtain emulated a proscenium arch, through which appeared a set scene of clouds. Just in front of this arch was ted a platform for the managers of the ball, at the back of which gleamed the old-time gas jet forming the word "Charity." This jet has done service for platform was surrounded by a railing and ap routhed by broad steps on each side. A carpet of hairs arranged for the use of the managers. The uper mileries were hidden from view, as were also great rows of seats back of the arena boxes, with draperies artistically hung so as to leave exonly the boxes of the arena and half a dozen ors of seats back of these boxes. The Madison-ave ed of the amphitheatre was unchanged. It did not pen possible that the dancing-floor was so much er than that in the Metropolitan Opera House, last night the dancers had 17,000 square feet of for, while at the opera house there were only 10,

In the second balcony on the Twenty-sixth-st, side of the building the 22d Regiment Band, formerly Gilmore's, now under the leadership of D. W. Reeves, was stationed to play for the opening concert and the promenade, while on the opposite side was Bernstein's orchestra, which played for dancing, alternating with band. At 10:30 o'clock there was a preminary concert by the military band.

Shortly before 11 o'clock when all the boxes were filed and the seats taken the signal for the grand march was given. This was led by Whitelaw Reid and Mrs. Edward Cooper, who were followed by managers of the hospital.

After Mr. Reid and Mrs. Cooper, who were a gown of apple green brocade and pink satin, with diamond ents, came Mrs. Reid and Edward Cooper, Mrs. Chester Griswold and J. J. Vail, Mrs. Robert Nicol and William Avery, Mrs. J. Howard Wright and J. Dunbar Wright, Mrs. H. Mills Day and W. D. heclydeht, Mr. and Mrs. Jonathan Thorne, Mrs. Joseph Brown and Clarence S. Day, Mrs. Clarence S. Day and Joseph Brown, Mrs. A J. Forbes-Leith and E. Tolfree, Miss Cornella Redmond and Charles Munn, Miss Tolfree and J. Philip Benkard, Mrs. P. Townsend Parlow and H. M. Jones. The floor commistee, after following the managers, separated and stood on each side of the balkoom floer until the places on the raised platform were vacated, and then hall began. The first dance was a waltz.

After the managers and their escort came T. J Oakley Rhinelander, the chairman of the floor com-mittee, and his aids, Courtlandt Schuyler Van Rensselaer, William Kip, Andrew A. Bibby, Livingston, J. Langdon Erving, Percy Burrill, George Sullivan, Robert Varnum, Arthur Schermerhorn, Will iam H. Russell, Van Rensselaer Cegawell, R. E. Livingston, Percival Erving, George Lawrence Myers, Colonel Asa Bird Gardiner, J. Stewart Barney, Hamilton Fish, jr., C. C. Bull, Lieutenant Van Lennep, W Seward Webb, Amory S. Carhart, Banyer Clarkson. James W. Gerard, jr., A. Newbold Morris, William Walnwright, Philip Rhinelander, McDongall Hawks, Jean Wafnwright, Andrew S. Webb, Robert Van Cort landt, Percy Bramwell, Langdon Schroeder, Mont-gomery Strong, Norman de R. Whitehouse, Charles Van Reusselaer, Robert Livingston, Laurence Miller, E. De Peyster Livingston, Samuel Betts, De Forest Manice and George Woolsey.

The formal march was continued twice about the ballroom when the orchestra started up a waltz, and the ball then fairly opened, the occupants of the boxes soon deserted them for the floor, and in a short time the ball was well under way. The amplitheatre pre sented a beautiful sight, the structure of the arena cupants. Many of the women carried bouquets or allowed them to rest on the ledges of the boxes. The view to one who stood on the platform, where the managers were, was bewildering, such was its beauty of color. Dancing was kept up until late.

The boxes were held as follows: First green-No. 1, C. F. Frotbingham; 5, Mrs. Robert Nicel; 6, Mis. Robert Hoe, Ir.; 7, Mrs. C. T. Noyca; 8, Miss Furnits; 9, Mrs. J. HISTORICAL SOCIETY OFFICERS.

RESULT OF THE ANNUAL ELECTION-A PLAN FOR STARTING THE NEW BUILDING.

The annual meeting of the New-York Historica Society was held last evening in the society's building, at Second-ave, and Eleventh st. John A. King, the presidence, presided and Andrew Warner was secretary ipal business of the evening was the election of officers for the year and the reading of the opinion of the executive committee in regard to a new building for the society. The annual reports of the treas urer, librarian and executive committee were read and approved.

The executive committee met often during the year, but nothing definite concerning the society's proposed new building was arrived at, owing to the smallness of the building fund. The committee recommended that one-half the new site owned by the society be covered with a building that could be merged or altered when financial conditions would warrant the erection of the complete structure on the whole site, which is at Central Fark West, Seventy sixth and Seventy-seventh-sts. The dimensions of the property are 204 by 125 feet. As soon as $350,000 sum necessary to begin the work of building, is raised, plans will be prepared for much more com modious and comfortable quarters than those now or cupled by the society. This plan meets the approval of the members generally, and President King, in his speech of last evening, asserted that it was the only feasible one in his estimation.

The society now has 1,780 members of all gradeof membership. Many rare manuscripts and volume of membership. Many rare manuscripts and volump-were added to the collections, and many legacies had been given throughout the year.

The following ticket was unanimously elected: President, John A. King; dist vice-president, John A. Weckes; second vice-president, John S. Kennedy; foreign corresponding secretary, John Bigelow; domes the corresponding secretary, Edward F. de Lancy; recording secretary, Andrew Warner, treasurer, Robert schell; librarian, William Kelby.

THE MOUNTEBANES' TO BE HEARD NEXT WEEK T. Henry French has fixed on Wednesday night of next week for the production of "The Mountebanks" at the Garden Theatro by the Lillian Russell Opera Combrief sketch of the plot of the opera, a point usuall of incre importance in the works of Mr. Gilbert tha in those of most other libraticats: In the first act band of brigands are heard declaring their reason for pursuing a five-century-old vendetta, in which their motto is "Rovenge Without Anxiety." They plot to disguise themselves as monks in order to seize the Duke and Duchess of Palavietni, who are expected in the evening, but before those illustrious personages can ar-rive a party of mountabanks comes on the scene. Pietro rive a party of neountabanks comes on the scene. Pletro, the proprietor, drives the donkey eart, on which are also seated Bartole, his most melancholy clown, and Nita, his dancing girl. He had intended to exhibit as his chief attraction two clockwork automata, representing Hamlet and Ophelia, but for want of prespects these have been selzed by the police. The way out of the difficulty is supplied by an alchemist who has left behind him a petion, the drinking of which will make every one exactly what he pretends to be.

Entols and Nita at Pictro's anggestion, consent to drink the potion in order that they may fitly impersonate the missing automata. But when the Duke of Palla-

the missing automata. But when the Duke of Palls vicini arrives, he insists upon wine being handed around and as the utiliter has teen poured into this, every one instantly becomes the person he, or the moment, was pretending to be. The second act accordingly finds the brigands turned into monks, the pretty girls into ages crones, and the same people into mad beings, all because they have been acting such parts at the moment of drinking. All this affords emple material for humor, es pecially on the part of the imitation clockwork automata But the spell is in due time removed, and all, including the interwoven love tale, ends pleasantly.

WHAT IS SAID ABOUT THE RUMOR THAT HE MAY BE CENSURED.

A TALK WITH A WELL-INFORMED LAYMAN AND A PROMINENT PRIEST-STRONG WORDS ABOUT THE SO-CALLED "CLIQUE."

As was only to be expected, the story from Boston, published in The Tribune of yesterday, announcof the higher church anthorities, that the real mis don of Mgr. Satolli to this country was personally to challenge the respect of the Archbishop of New York, created a good deal of excitement in Roman opinion, however, was that this was not the real obect of Mgr. Satolli's visit here, and that the story was circulated by the enemies of Archbishop Corri-A Tribune reporter visited a good many prominent priests and laymen yesterday to ask them sinuation of cowardice and said that if I had been what they thought about the story. None of them, present I most certainly should not have rehowever, would allow their names to be published mained conceuled, in connection with whatever they said, as they all about as follows: feel that It would not be wise to become involved in the dispute which exists in the Roman Catholic hurch here and which is attracting the attention

158 Waverley Pince. When asked whether he would say anything about the story or Dr. McGlynn's or his own case he said in a most sorrowful voice: "I fairest section of the American shorts he will be a faired by the country of the American shorts he was not one man who daired to sight a name. This shows the true character of the opposite whose wisdom and tast have been gathering over the fairest section of the American shorts have been gathering over the fairest section of the American shorts have been gathering over the fairest section of the American shorts have been gathering over the fairest section of the American shorts have been gathering over the fairest section of the American shorts have been gathering over the fairest section of the American shorts have been gathering over the fairest section of the American shorts have been gathering over the fairest section of the American shorts have been gathering over the fairest section of the American shorts have been gathering over the fairest section of the American shorts have been gathering over the fairest section of the American shorts have been gathering over the fairest section of the American shorts have been gathering over the fairest section of the American shorts have been gathering over the fairest section of the American shorts have been gathering over the fairest section of the American shorts have been gathering over the fairest section of the fairest section am exceedingly sorry that I cannot do anything for you, and I regret that you had the trouble of coming here. You know I never talk about those things. My opinions are already well enough known. Even if I should say anything and my name were not mentioned in connection with what I said, every one would know that the opinions expressed came from me. I am too well known to say anything about whatever trouble may exist in the Church. Again let me say that I regret exceedingly that I cannot do anything for you."

James S. Coleman said: "It is a matter about which I care not to say anything." With the excep-

Archbishop Corrigan simply said: "I have nothing to say to-day about the story."

A well-known Roman Catholic layman, however, who is well informed on what takes place in the thurch, said: "I read the story from Boston, which told of the true object of Ngr. Satoll's visit told of the true object of part and real it the first thing that struck me was that the Catholic University at Washington must have been moved to Boston. Of course I was surprised to think such an important change had been made and I had not heard of it. However, so many things are being done in these days that a man cannot be blamed much if he does not keep track of everything that happens.

'That story may have been sent from Boston, but it emanated from the Catholic University at Washington. It is simply another piece of the mean and cowardly work of the clique in the hierarchy of the Church who are opposed to Archbishop Corrigan. Any one who knows anything at all about Roman catholic affairs in this country must be aware that such a clique exists, and that, to gain their object, they will circulate all the lying statements they can invent so long as these statements will tend to put the Archbishop of New York in a false light. Unfortunately for them, however, the members of the Roman Catholic Church in the Archdiocese of New-York, at least, know of their work and why they are ing it. Their work is not the result so much of want of intelligence as of motives of personal ambition. They are trying the policy of intimidation, annot intimidate Archbishop Cerrigan, however, and the sooner they realize that the better will it be themselves.

"It is extremely strange why they should single out Archbishop Corrigan for disobedience to the Holy See and disrespect to the Papal delegate who represee and disrespect to the Papal delegate who represents the Papa. The Archidshop was always said to be the most Roman prelate in this country. This clique, however, are trying to create an impression that the Archidshop is not Roman in his views. Ep to a short while ago, according to the members of this combination, he was not in sympathy with American continued. sentiment. If he is not Roman or American, what is he! The Architshop has always preached obediene to the Holy See. Why, even his sermon in th Cathedral on New Year's day culminated on obedience to the Holy See. They say he has assailed the authority of the Holy see. Well, why do they not prove their assertions! Simply because they have no proof to advance. Why do they not give facts, say what he has done, when he was disobediefit to the Holy See, and show in what way he failed to obey the authority of Rome?
"Now regarding his alleged disrespect to Monsignor

Satolii. The story says that the conduct of the Arch-bishop toward Monsigner Satolii from the time of his espectful, and goes on to say that for the representaof the Pope he had neither welcome nor courtes; All that is untrue. It is true, however, that the Archbishop was not one of those who received Monsign from the steamer. This was no fault of the Arch malor's. It is well known that he was excluded from taking any part in the reception to the apostolic del-egate when he arrived in this city. Monsignor Satolli was taken in hand by a committee of clergymen who informed the Archbishop that they would escort the Papal delegate to his house. When the Archbishop asked the committee where the tug would land he was told that they did not know, and no information what ever would be given out. Everything was done to prevent the Archbishop from meeting Monsignor Satolli on his arrival, and he was unable to thwart their plans. After doing all this it is mean and cowardly to say that he showed his disrespect for Monsigner satolli by not meeting him when he landed.

"It is asserted that Architshop Corrigan is opposed to Monsgror Satol I remaining in this country, and that he does not approve his plans regarding the whool question. Well, supposing that these assertions are true, why should Architshop Corrigan be abused? With the acception of Archbishop Ireland, did not all the Archbishops agree with Archbishop Corrigan in thinking that the time had not yet come in this country for a Papal delegate to be sent here, and that his plans for settling the school question were not prac-tical. That all the Archbishops with the exception of tical! That all the Archbist-ps with the exception of Archbishop Ireland thought the same way as Archbishop Corrigan is well known. Why should be be singled out for disobedience to the Holy See when every other Archbishop except one was guilty of the same crime, if it were a crime! Then again, regarding Cahenslyism, let me say that it is well known that Archbishop Corrigan is as much opposed to Cahenslyism as any bishop in the country. Then why should Monsignor Satolli have been sent here to "The members of the clique hint at the suspension of Archbishop Corrigan. Do they know that suspension supposes a grievous fault? He will not be suspended because he has not committed a grievous fault. He need not, and is not, I am sure, afiald of them or their mean and cowardly work, and sooner or later te will be able to prove to the world that he was being molested, annoyed and misrepresented by a clique in the hierarchy of the Roman Catholic Church

A well-known rector of a well-known church dic-tated the following about the story: "The idea that Archbishop Corrigan is assailing the Holy See is all nonsense. Rome has not a more devoted bishop in the world than he. He has done more than any other prelate in the United States to promulgate love and devotion to the Holy Sec. He has been and is, the most Roman of all bishops. Our progress in canon law is chiefly due to him. The people who decry him are those who have never been and in canon law is chiefly due to him. The people who decry him are those who have never been as loyal as he has been to the Holy See and its teachings. Archbishop Corrigan has always been a champion of the Pope. For instance, he has always been a champion of the Pope. For instance, he has always been a champion of the pope. For instance, he has always been a champion of the pope. For instance, he has always been a champion of the pope. For instance, he has always been a champion of the pope. The man are, and have been, to say the very least, linkewarm on this subject, to say the very least, linkewarm on this subject, to say the very least, linkewarm on this subject, astic. He is no politician, but he is a fluished scholar, and in this respect he has no superior in the American hierarchy. Other ement prelates may excel him hierarchy. Other ement prelates may excel him hierarchy. Other ement prelates may excel him diplomacy, but except Monsignor Satolli himself, there is no prelate in the United States so thoroughly the popel for his position as the Archbishop of New York.

So the satistic population in the Merchy one of the popel of the position is a synthetic point of the satistic point of the

FATHER CORRIGAN AND DR. MIGLYNN. THE HOBOREN PRIEST HAS SOMETHING TO SAY ABOUT COWARDICE-PRAISE FOR MON-SIGNOR SATOLLI.

A portion of a letter from the Rev. Patrick Corrigan, paster of the Church of Our Lady of Grace, in Hoboken, published yesterday, in which he praised Mensignor Satelli and referred to his coming to this country as a blossing to the American priesthood, attracted a good deal of attention in religious circles To a Tribune reporter Father Corrigan said last night "One of the New-York papers, in its account of the meeting in honor of Dr. McGlynn held on Sunday at Cooper Union, contained a reference to me as having been present at the meeting, but as having kept myself well out of sight. Although not present that evening I felt impelled to write a letter to the editor, in which I defended myself from the inmained concealed. The rest of the letter went on

In fact there has been too much of this hiding business of inte in certain quarters, and it is not only unceclesta-tical, but coward'y in the extreme, and must finally bring of everyone.

Dr. Burtsell came to town yesterday and went to the house of his friend, John A. McLoughlin, at No. 158 Waverley Place. When asked whether he would scattered the clouds that have been gathering over the fairest section of the American church for several years wants of the Church of America would like t where a priest may obtain full justice without obliged to travel 4,000 miles and to spend $4,000. American priests find that the delegate is their fluc-fierd, and that the woman from Boston, and the anonymous priest and laynen and the begus telegram writers from Battimore and St. Louis and elsewhere are of the dark lentern type, who are afraid to show themselves while insulting the Pope in the prison of his delegate. Let the priests of the province of New-York call a grand meeting in New-York City during the present month to take action in refer-ence to a grand testimonial to the Pope at his jubilee in February, and you will see a manifestation of love the Pope and his delegate that will bring joy to

G. O. M. of Rome. "I think," continued Father Corrigun, "that these attacks against Monsignor Satolit should conse and t at Dr. McGlynn should be let alone. His case is in the hands of the Propaganda and no good can come from neddling with the Pope's delegate. Of course, I cannot speak with authority, but I believe that Dr.
McGlynn will soon go to Rome, and that on his return he will receive an excellent parish. There is considerable dissatisfaction with Monstenor Saiolil because he is not an American, an sone chergymen and laymen say that he cannot projectly treat the public school question for that reason. For my part I think that, being of foreign birth, he will be more free from political bias than a native would be.
I know that my reclinas regarding Monstenor saiolil are shared by nearly all the chergy in this siste and in New York and in the rest of the country. The pelley of the Pope's delegate is the true American one, and any member of our Church who opposes it is not a true American. This is an age of progress and the Church must keep abreast of the times. I am particularly interested in the movement which has been started by several clergymen in New York, to give a dinner

WORK OF ST. JOHN'S GUILD.

At the annual meeting of St. John's Guild held last tho oughly discussed. The recent appropriation for the Scalific Hospital at New-Dorp, S. L. will leave only small balance in the Guild's treasury, and last night the members decided to appeal to the public for aid in carrying on the work of curing for the sick children of the poor during the sunmer. In his annual report Dr. Charles A. Leale, the president of the Guild, spoke of the necessity Leals, the president of the Guild, spoke of the necessity of the society increasing its equipment. He said that there should be a floating hospital for both the East and West sides of the city. His plan called for the expenditure of about $40,000. In 1852 the Guild received $32,011.93 in contributions, and enough in mombership dues to make $55,900.93. The expenditures were $22,511.60. Constitute $1,500. Faure, chairman of the Floating Hospital Com mittee, reported that negotiations were being carried on between the Board of Health and the trustees of the Guild with regard to the Guild's Floating Hespital, which was turned ever to the city last full at the time of the cholers scare. Last season the Floating Hespital made forty-onscale. Last season the Floating Respect made forty-dis-tries, and 48,684 persons were cared for. The report of Dr. John H. Hinton showed that the Seaside Hospital had done efficient service. Last summer 1.138 patients, of whom 722 were children and 412 were mothers, were treated. Dr. Mark Blumenthal spoke about the good work of the city hospital of the Guild at No. 157 West Sixty-first-st. Since the hospital was opened last March of sick children from three to lifteen years old were received as patients and 42 were discharged as cured.

The chairman of the nominating committee, Walter William H. Wiley, John W. Weed, Dr. M. thal, W. W. Flannagan and Alfred B. S. etc. nanimously re-elected for a term of five years.

A WARNING ABOUT THE WICKED ZEBRA.

In reference to the herse-taming and wild zebra exhibition at the Madison Square Garden on Monday evening next, Professor Glouson has received the following telegram from A. E. Burkhardt, president of the Zeological Gardens, in Cincinnati, whence the man-eating zebra comes.

Gardens, in Cincinnati, whence the man-enting 200m comes:

"Zebra will be shipped as directed. Be caceful in unlonding him. He is the most victous animal we have ever owned, except the crary elephant. Chief. He has seriously crippled and injured three men, and has bitten two female zebras and two pony manes. I personally had a nary-w escape while watching the keepers turn him into his paddock. He is the zebra I bought while visiting the Jardin des Plantes in Paris. Devil Dick," as our men call him, fights not only with his hoofs, but with his teeth, and hangs on with the tenacity of a buildog. We have had him fifteen years, and he is more vigorous and wickeder now than when we got him. He weights about 500 pounds, and is the largest zebra I ever saw. When you endeavor to handle him, look out for his teeth, as well as his hoofs. I hope you can subdue him, but I am troubled with doubts."

The 100 head of vicious horses will arrive from different parts of the States of New-York, Pennsylvania, Ohio and Connecticut on Friday and Saturday, and will be stalled n the Exhibition Hall preparatory to appearing on Mon-

MR. CLEVELAND AT WORK.

HE HAD MANY CALLERS YESTERDAY.

PLENTY OF ADVICE ABOUT APPOINTMENTS-MR CROKER WILL RECOMMEND ONLY

POLITICIANS FOR OFFICE.

Mr. Cleveland did not venture down to his law office in Broad-st. in the snapping cold yesterday. He preferred the atmosphere of his house, No. 12 West Fifty-first-st., as he has done ever since Senator Carlisle was here last week. In fact he has hugged the hearthstone closely most of the time since Mrs. Cleveland went to Buffale to visit her mother. His callers yesterday included Senator Brice, of New-York and Ohio; Josiah Hallock, Entered into rest, January 1st, Emily Louise Laborator and Courted for the last week. The last John M. Furman.

Rochelle, on Thursday at 3 o'clock.

Rochelle, on Thursday at 5 o'clock. Senator Brice, of New-York and Ohio; Josiah Quincy, the Massachusetts member of the Demoeratic National Committee: Congressman James B. McCreary, of Kentucky; Congressman C. Buckley Kilgore, of Texas, and ex-Senator Norton Chace, of Albany. Senator Hill spent the day in the city, but went to Washington last evening without seeing the President-elect.

Congressman Kilgore's errand was for the purpose of pressing the claims of the Lone Star State to a seat in Mr. Cleveland's Cabinet. Mr. Kilgore, who established a high reputation as a vigorous debater during the List Congress by kicking down a door which stood in his way, urged upon Mr. Cleveland the merits and qualifications of his colleague in the House of Representatives, David B. Culberson, who represents a Texas district adjacent to Mr. Kilgore's. Fearing possibly that his visitor might adopt his Washington methods of argument to the detriment of the doors or furniture of his domicile, Mr. Cleveland pretended to be strongly impressed with Mr. Kilgore's presentation of his reasons why Mr. Culberson should be appointed Postmaster-General, which the Texan said was the place for Mr. Culberson, and that the whole delegation from his State was backing his candidate. In spite of Mr. Cleveland's acquiescent attitude during Mr. Kilgere's remarks, nobody believes that Mr. Culberson's arguments will be availing, especially if choice must be made between the Texas applicant and Colonel Lamont

The mission of Congressman McCreary, who was one of the members of the Monetary Conference, was to acquaint the President-elect with some of its inside history. He also undertook to strengthen Senator Carlisle in Mr. Cleveland's esteem. This was a total work of supercrogation, however, as the Senator and the President-elect had sufficiently cemented their friendship while the former was the guest of the latter last week. Fesides Mr. Carlisle has Mr. Clevelan I's offer of the Treasury portfolio in his pocket, in Mr. Cleveland's handwriting.

If reports which are believed to be authentic by well-informed Democrats are to be relied upon, Mr. Cleveland will disappoint the expectations New-Yorkers in his choice for a Collector of the Fort, and will go outside of the city to find an official to suit him. It is understood that he has already offered the place to State Senator Charles F. McCleiland, of Westchester County, one of the two anti-Murphy men in the upper house. Mr. McClelland was special Deputy Collector of the Port under Daniel Mazone, in the last Democratic Administration, and held the office for nearly a year and a half under Collector Magone's Re publican successor, Collector Erhardt.

Another appointment said to have been decided open, which will please the Mugwumps and Anti-Snappers, is that of ex-District-Attorney Peter B. Olney to the post of United States District-Attorney for the Southern District of New-York. Mr. Olney was one of the charter members in the May movement against Senator Hill, and was an active co-worker with ex-Mayor Grace, ex-Secretary Fairchild and the other Anti-Snappers In getting up the Syracuse Convention and the inti-Hill delegation to Chicago.

One stubborn circumstance which the Cleve land workers say they have had to contend with hand workers say they have had to content with their contest against Murphy is the subtle influence of some of the (Roman Catholic clergy and fluence of some of the (Roman Catholic clergy and fluence of some of the religious of having forces, it is alleged, have been desirous of having forces, it is alleged, have been desirous of having respectative of the religious faith in the forces, it is alleged, have been desirous of having a representative of the religious faith in the United States Senate ever since Francis Kernan terminated his service in that body in 1881. They quickly saw the advantage of concentrating their strength and influence in favor of Mr. Murphy, and the powerful aid they were able to him is referred to as one of the reasons why all opposition to his candidacy has proved abortive. That the Catholic Church has a powerful hold on the Democratic machinery has often be demonstrated. Mr. Murphy's friends, it would appear, have not hesitated to use it to his ad-

Ex-Chamberlain Croker returned to the city on Monday evening, and yesterday was seen in his favorite corner in his private office in Tammany Hall. He had a number of callers during the day, and did not veil his thoughts in parables. He handled the subject of the offices, which everybody will admit that he is pretty well versed in, with his customary directness.

"It is my opinion," he remarked, casting a in, with his cus'omary directness.

"It is my opinion," he remarked, casting a keen gance over his auditory, "that the offices should be held by politeians. My observation of the administration of our municipal government shows me that the city is better and more economically governed when the politeians till the offices than when the so-called business men administer them. We have had too many cases where men of this class have secured prominent places and then neglected the duties which they were appointed to perform for their own private affairs.

"I have received many letters from business men recently," continued Mr. Croker, "informing me that they can spare an hour or two a day from their business to act as a commissioner in some of the municipal departments. The people want no such service as this. It is no one or two hours a day that the people expect from an official who receives a good salary for performing the duties of his office. They believe and expect that the full time of every man who holds an office under the city government should be devoted to his office.

"I don't object to business men as such. We need men with business instincts in the public service, but when once appointed they should give their whole time to the city.

"I want to say this, and I do not want any who are applicants for place to misunderstand me," added the Wigwam chieftain with closing emphasis. "I shall recommend no man for appointment under the city government who will agot be willing to zive up his business and to devote his entire attention to the service of the people."

The the service of the people Mr. Croker is the people. "" service of the people."

people."
By the "service of the people" Mr. Croker doubtless meant the service of Tammany Hall, although he did not say it in so many words.
